Last Call: "Ken Yer Bairns" webinar

Today is your last chance to sign up for "Ken Yer Bairns" webinar, to be held on Tuesday 19th May, at 11am. The aim of the webinar is to reach out to those who have children or manage/work alongside young people (especially those classed as Generation Z) and to provide a bit of guidance on how to deal with them around the house, but more importantly, to understand the motivations and drivers of the youngest element of our work force and how to tap into their enthusiasm and passion for the benefit of the company and wider construction industry.

Delivered by Bob Cummins of SODAK, you can sign up here

Update to Coronavirus Symptoms

The four UK Chief Medical Officers have stated today saying that as well as a new continuous cough or fever, a key sign of Coronavirus is "anosmia" - a loss or a change in your normal sense of smell.

UK Parliament - Scottish Affairs Select Committee Inquiry

The Scottish Affairs Committee has begun an inquiry into Coronavirus and Scotland. The committee is accepting written evidence on this until 23rd June. In particular, the Committee is considering the effectiveness of the "four nations approach", the implications of different lockdown measures north and south of the border, key worker status and the effectiveness of business support available. You can find out more and submit evidence here.
